SECTION FOUR

The information below not only helps us select those applicants who are most likely to benefit from the programme, but setting it down will also contribute to your own preparation for guiding others in faith; by helping you to grow yourself in self-awareness and in the sense of your own life as an unfolding relationship with God.

Therefore would you please, after due time and prayer, write a short account of yourself, on separate sheets, indicating something of your background, your occupations and ministry, the reasons why you wish to partake in this programme and your expectations of it. As far as you can, say something about the way you pray and about the development of prayer in the course of your life. What are your desires for the future, both for your own further growth and for your ministry? (Hopefully this will take between one and four sides of A4 paper)

If you are an ordained minister and/or religious, we ask you to obtain from your bishop and/or major religious superior a letter of recommendation and support. You should enclose this letter of recommendation and support when you send in your completed application form.
